Topic 1: Integration of texts and pictures

A subject of much debate among educational practitioners and scholars is, for example, whether it is beneficial to integrate explanatory texts in pictures (rather than putting them in separate legends).

I think that it is actually beneficial to integrate explanatory texts into pictures.
On this topic, for example, Quantz & Peters (2014) write in the "Journal" of Effective Teaching": An educational scient groups of 94 students each shows that students materials in which pictures and explant (compared to materials in which pictures are presented separately).	nce experiment dents learn mor latory texts are	t with two e successfu integrated	l I

How much do you trust the claims of the educational scientists Quantz & Peters on the topic of text-picture integration?
